

Trust and network building in journalism

OpenNews

Erika Owens, @erika_owens
February 12 | Miami, FL

What builds trust?

This is not a notebook.
(Photo: israelavila)

Differentiating real news from impostor news on the newsstand?
(Photo: Louis Beche)

We do

Yep, us

We form a network with one another

KF KNIGHT FOUNDATION

OPENNEWS: INSIGHTS FROM BUILDING A COMMUNITY OF NEWSROOM TECHNOLOGISTS

Summary Findings Report

February 2017

NI NETWORK IMPACT

The cover features a teal background with a network diagram of blue dots and lines. The Knight Foundation logo is in the top left, and the Network Impact logo is in the bottom left. The title is centered in a white box.

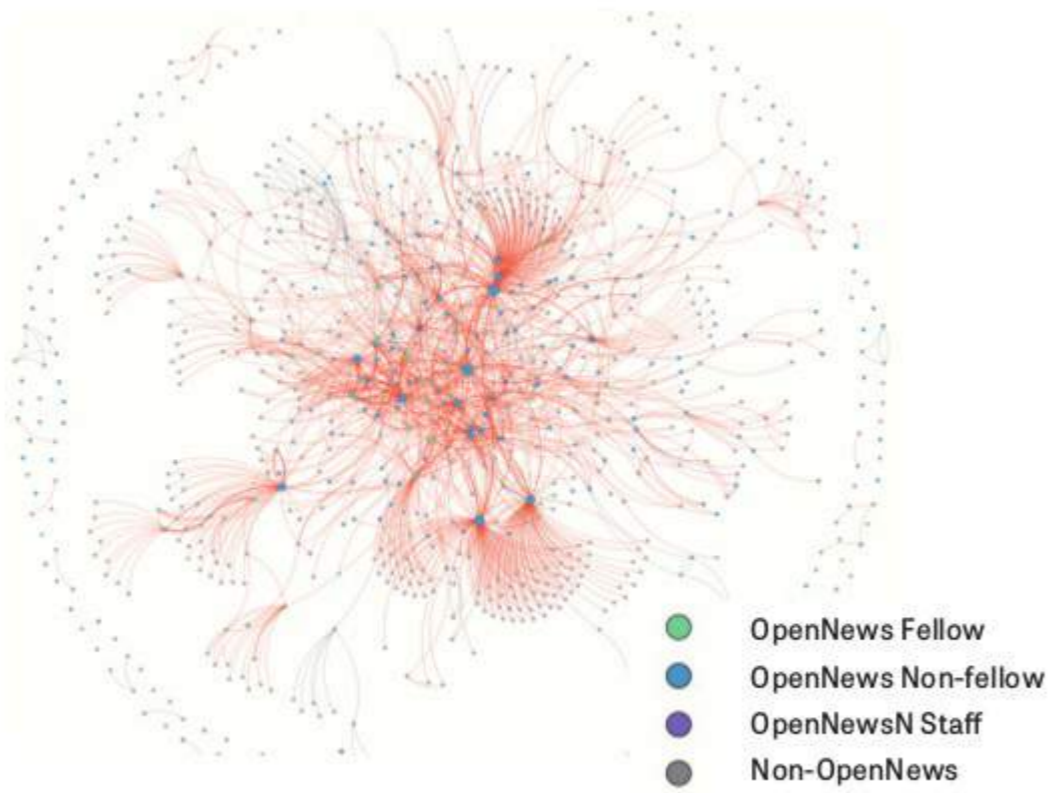

We are a network of network builders

Learning from other communities and networks

We connect

Network map from Twitter discussions during July 21-Aug. 8, 2016, which included any of the following: @Source, @OpenNews, #SRCCON, #OpenNews

We connect, with curiosity

We gather as a community to chat every other week (Photo: Royce Blair)

We connect, with an opinion

Conference sessions work best when it's not just a couple dudes at the front of the room. (Photo: Erik Westra)

We connect, to feel less alone

The welcoming community at SRCCON (Photos: Lindsay Muscato)

We connect as members of the network

Bustling meal time at SRCCON 2016 (Photo: Erik Westra)

We are a part of our communities

We cannot expect our communities to trust us if we remain apart from them.

Thank you

Erika Owens

@erika_owens, erika@opennews.org

OpenNews.org, @OpenNews

Source.OpenNews.org, @Source

SRCCON.org, @SRCCON

